It's the final rehearsal for Peter Schaffer's play Black Comedy by the local amateur dramatic society. Andy Felterbush the director is found dead on stage and all members of the society are up for questioning by Detective Corps-Nuds, no one is innocent as they all have a motive but who could have possibly killed the director?!

There is Hugh Gebrests who can't act for toffee whom Andy constantly criticised. Teresa Tickle, who Andy was having an affair with behind his wife's back, assistant director Anita. Then there is the slightly drunken stage manager Erin Gobralez who hated the production! We also have ex-RSC actor Dave playing a woman as they have run out of females. Donna K. Bab and her precious daughter who she feels is getting no stage time. The only decent actor is Mike Rotchburns who pops up at inconvenient times all the while the patron of the society Major Rod Stiffington and his associate hoping their favourite play gets the right treatment and if it doesn't they will pull the plug!

Theatre Royal Youth Theatre 16-22 promises a night of laughs, murder and intrigue.

Parental guidance is advised.
